

Five days of fun

It was another successful year for Shakopee Derby Days, with the first-ever city diversity fair kicking off five-day festival, boosting Wednesday's attendance.

Along with regular favorites like the Soap Box Derby and Sunday parade, Derby Days brought in new features again this year, including a downtown history race and a putt-putt golf course for the kids.

A fireworks display by a new vendor along the Minnesota River and a performance by the Johnny Holm Band capped off Saturday night, which drew a massive crowd to Huber Park.

Additional photos from the five-day festival can be viewed or purchased at photos.shakopeeews.com.
-Shannon Fiecke

PHOTO BY SHANNON FECKE
Seohee Negreros, 5, angles her ball closer on the putt-putt golf course, which was new this year.

PHOTO BY WILL GALV
Chingee Haltaruu of Circus Manduhai shows off multiple hula hoops during the international festival on Wednesday.